

The U.S. Patent System:
Just the

WHAT ARE OUR COMPETITORS ABROAD SAYING ABOUT THE PATENT REFORM ACT OF 2007?

"This provision [regarding post grant review] will subject many existing US patents to an immediate threat of invalidation as it makes [it] easier to show the obviousness of the invention. Seeking invalidation of patent[s] is likely to be a part of the patent strategy that Indian generics companies may follow in the US."

*DG Shah, Secretary General
Indian Pharmaceutical Alliance*

As quoted by Economic Times, India, July 23, 2007

The world is eagerly watching the Congressional patent reform debate...and NOT because they think proposed reforms will make the U.S. patent system stronger.

In its current form, the Patent Reform Act of 2007 is bad for American innovation and wrong for America.